Overview

Sydney Abbott is a dedicated advocate for individuals and families navigating life's most challenging transitions.

Sydney joined Cohen Cleary, P.C. in 2023, as an associate attorney, and has since narrowed her primary area of focus on probate and family law matters. Sydney represents individuals working through complex and sensitive legal matters, such as paternity actions, child support establishment and modifications, custody disputes, and divorce proceedings, guardianships, conservatorships, and other probate litigation. Recognizing that these issues often arise during periods of emotional and financial instability, Sydney is committed to providing clear guidance, compassion, and strong legal representation at every stage of the process.

Sydney assists clients by breaking down complex legal procedures into understandable, manageable steps, enabling them to make well-informed decisions about their rights and their future. Whether negotiating favorable resolutions, advocating in court, or helping clients safeguard their interests and assets, Sydney approaches each case with compassion, careful attention to detail, and commitment to achieving practical, long-term outcomes.

Sydney is particularly well suited to meet her clients' needs through her professionalism, responsiveness, and well-balanced approach to advocacy. She understands that each family's circumstances are unique, tailoring her legal strategy to align with each client's specific goals, priorities, and challenges. Clients value Sydney's empathy, steady guidance, clear communication, and unwavering dedication to protecting what matters most to them during some of life's most difficult transitions.
